

Maritime Network for Research and Innovation

CMT's main goal is to strengthen research, development and innovation in the maritime industry by promoting the cooperation between the various players from industrial and scientific worlds at national and European levels.

Our services:

- Fostering the application of research results and reducing the time to market for new technologies, materials and services
- Developing visions, strategies and concepts for new products and processes in the maritime sector
- Administrative and technical assistance during preparation and execution of national and European projects
- Focusing resources and exploiting synergies within the maritime cluster
- Strengthening the competitiveness of the German and European maritime industry, thus shaping and enhancing European cooperation
